

I think Republicans are more hypocritical.

user1

I would agree with that statement. I also think they have been focusing so much on things that don't matter to rile up their base.

user2

And it sure is working.

user2

Not to say that Democrats aren't as well, but with Republicans, there's not even a fig leaf disguising the hypocrisy.

user1

I think they are well aware that if we had easy access to voting and legitimate districts, they would never again be in power.

user2

I agree, their base falls for it.

user1

So you're actually a real person?

user2

I'm shocked.

user2

Yes

user1

I know, it's rare.

user1

I am very worried about these mid-terms.

user2

You'd think that with everything surround Roe and the general attack on privacy, we'd be able to win.

user2

But Dems gonna Dem.

user2

Yes, if elections were fair, Republican's would never be in power without making some real changes.

user1

No, Dems will find a way to lose

user1

Right. So the cheating happens.

user2

I mean, Biden, while I love the affable old weirdo, is not doing us any favors.

user2

And I haven't seen Kamela in what feels like months.

user2

Cheating is the only way to maintain power. Culture war issues are all they have because if they wage a culture war then they don't have to do any real work

user1

I mean, they have to do the hard work of getting people angry about doctor seuss.

user2

Yeah, think it's purposeful? Hide her away because she's unpopular?

user1

Could be, but neither of them are particularly popular.

user2

The one thing that the GOP does work hard to do is make sure nothing happens on the gun violence prevention front.

user2

Lol, yeah even though he started as a political cartoonist who would not have agreed with them

user1

It drives me crazy that they can take NRA bribes in public and noone does anything about it

user1

I know. My sister-in-law is a teacher in Colorado. Her superintendent is trying to arm the teachers.

user2

Like, he really wants to give all the teachers guns.

user2

What a dumb idea, is she in a rural county or in Douglas county where the school board is insane?

user1

Douglas

user2

She wants to get out.

user2

yikes, I followed a lot of the recent school board drama. Not a good situation for teachers

user1

Jefferson county is a little better, we defeated the crazy slate of board members, but it was closer than I like.

user1

She got brought in front of the super intendent and the principal because she posted something on facebook against Trump/the GOP.

user2

Her co-teacher, who is a deep conspiracy theorist (who should clearly not be educating anyone) and Trumper accused her FB posts as attempts to bully her.

user2

Loons out there.
